Deadline approaches for Hawksworth Young Chef Scholarship

September 17, 2013. 1:48 pm • Section: Eat My Words

The scholarship gives Red Seal chefs, 28 years old and under, the chance to compete for a prize of a $10,000 scholarship and a stage at a top international restaurant. Applicants, who can come from anywhere in the country, must be working full-time in a professional kitchen and apply by Sept. 21, 2013. Details are available at www.hawksworthscholarship.com

From the applicants, ten finalists will be selected to gather for the inaugural Hawksworth Young Chef Scholarship competition at the Pacific Institute of Culinary Arts in Vancouver on Sunday, October 27th 2013.

Judges include Normade Laprise, chef and owner of Montreal's Toqué and Brasserie T!, Chef Mark McEwan, star of Top Chef Canada, award-winning food author, Jacob Richler, corporate executive chef of Oliver & Bonacini Restaurants, Anthony Walsh. Vancouver-based celebrity chef Vikram Vij, Hawksworth Restaurant's chef de cuisine, Kristian Eligh, and David Hawksworth – award-winning chef at Hawksworth restaurant in Vancouver's Rosewood Hotel Georgia.

The Hawksworth Young Chef Scholarship program is a non-profit culinary foundation created to provide a platform for talented young Canadian chefs to get a head start in their career. (That's David Hawksworth in the file photo.)
